

ROBYN & RYLEIGH

Robyn and Ryleigh Gillespie are part of the wave of young, new country performers rising up from the West Coast of Canada. Like many of their contemporaries, they've taken modern, youthful pop influences and blended them with traditional country elements of acoustic instruments, meaningful lyrics, and sibling harmonies.

Their original songs describe the honest, everyday feelings of their generation, in a way that listeners of any age can identify with. They also have a knack of putting their own stamp on favourite standards, with their crowds at live shows having as much fun as the girls do performing for them.

In the last couple of years, the girls have been honing their music on stages around B.C.'s lower mainland. Their shows have ranged from intimate coffee shop open mics to high profile events, like the 2010 Olympics and the BC Summer Games. They were recently showcased at the British Columbia Country Music Industry Awards Show.

With an ever growing audience, their future in the music industry indeed looks bright. Robyn and Ryleigh are recording their first CD, scheduled for release this summer. It features a collection of songs written from the heart that is sure to stake their place on the entertainment map.
